INDIVIDUALITY.

If the stars differed not,
Were each sunset the same,
How the glorious outspread
Would grow common and tame.
Were all humans alike
As the peas in the pod,
They could never contain
All the good of the sod.

You are better than I,
You are wiser, 'tis true,
But some small thing is mine
That is lacking in you.
For what pushes along
This old world that we see
Is the you—not I—
And the meanness of me.

—McLaudugh Wilson.

GADSDEN GIRL HAS WRITTEN AN OPERA.

Miss Mathilda Bilbro, one of Gadsden's most talented young women, has recently completed the score of a comic opera, which is a gem in every sense of the word. The music is all bright and catchy. Three songs and dances presented tomorrow evening by the Society Vaudeville are taken from the opera which is to be called the "Rose of Navarre." The dance in which Carolyn and Flora May Gentry appear in tomorrow night was also composed by Miss Bilbro.

Miss Bilbro has composed and published music which proved popular. She is one of the most gifted young women of Alabama. Besides being a splendid musician she is a writer of

A Message from St. Nicholas Girls.

During the past week the St. Nicholas Girls received for the Doll and Toy fund about eighty dollars in cash and toys. This represents not the work of a week. For the St. Nicholas Girls have not worked to get this fund. They have just told people about it a very little bit, and everyone they have talked to, and lots they haven't talked to, have wanted to help. They are going to tell everybody about it in good time. All those who want to know, at least.

On Saturday afternoon the contribution to the fund was as follows:

Peter Lindenstruth Jewelry Company $2.00

Cash $2.50

Rendall's Music House (toys) $5.00

If you should chance to meet a girl who seemed to radiate appreciation, and express her joyous thanks in every tone of her voice and glance at the bright, good world—then sure it is a St. Nicholas Girl. For there is more than one—more than two. We will not say just how many there are. But you will know her by her expression of goodwill and grateful thanks.

One of them came to the Doll and Toy fund headquarters breathless with interest and excitement.

"I can't say it myself," she said. "But, oh, please say it for me. They are so GOOD."

"I can't give the infection, but 'good' was written with four Big Capitals."

"Why, they are lovely. All of them. They WANT to help us. They are just as interested as we are—if that can be. And oh, I am so enthusiastic!"

"Let me tell you what happened. I went into a store to pay a bill. And when I handed the merchant the check, what do you suppose he did?"

"He handed it back to me for the Doll and Toy fund! Wasn't that lovely?"

"And there was a minister in the store. I am not going to give you his name, for maybe he wouldn't like it. But he is going to conference and just as soon as he gets back he is going to help us. And he said such lovely, lovely things about the work. And then he put his hand in his pocket and gave me some money for the Doll and Toy fund. And he said, 'That will do until I get back from conference.' And he said he was sure the ministers were interested and would help."

"And then I went into another store and they gave me five dollars' worth of toys. Think of that! Five dollars' worth of toys is a whole lot. I wish I could tell about it—and I wish you could go with us, for oh, you don't know how GOOD they are!"

And I said: "Why, I think you have told about it better than anybody else in the world could, dear St. Nicholas Girl."

"And I am going to tell them just exactly what you have said to me. Only I can't put you in my heart and tell them about you. I wish I could. It would be a picture to gladden the heart of the patron Saint of all little children."

Killarney roses. The bridesmaids wore gowns of pale yellow charmeuse with the trimmings in different effect and made with long trains. They carried clusters of Richmond roses and ferns.

The little ring-bearer's suit was of duck blue velvet and lace, and the little flower-girl wore a dainty frock of accordion-pleated chiffon and lace over white charmeuse. She carried a basket filled with white rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

There was a large wedding reception later at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michel, in Esplanade avenue, for which the home was prettily decorated with palms, garlands of smilax and white tulle bows. Bride roses, combined with asparagus fern and tulle, decorated the table in the dining-room. Mrs. Michel was assisted in receiving by members of the bridal party, and by Mrs. George Sarraz, mother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Paul Fouchy, Mrs. P. H. Lanauze and Mrs. Walter Leamont. She wore a gown of multi-colored, combined with embroidered chiffon velvet of the same color and trimmed with real lace and fur. Mrs. Sarraz, Fouchy, old rose velvet with lace and chiffon, and Mrs. Leamont, an Albee blue gown with lace and chiffon trimmings.

Mrs. Lanauze's gown was of black charmeuse and chiffon with trimmings in lace and jet. The bridal couple stood in an alcove made of ferns and tall palms studded with garlands of electric lights. Mr. Sarraz and his bride will be absent for a week, having gone on a short honeymoon trip near New Orleans, and on their return will be at home at their own residence at 1718 Bayou Road street. They were sent a number of beautiful gifts by friends here and elsewhere.

MEETING OF THE CAXTONS WITH MRS. TAYLOR.

FOR MR. AND MRS. L. M. DAVIS.

On Friday afternoon the Past Noble Grand association met with Mrs. L. M. Davis at her home in East Hill.

It happened to be Mr. and Mrs. Davis's eighth wedding anniversary and the members presented them a lovely silver sandwich plate. Mrs. M. B. Olsen making the presentation on behalf of the members in her usual gracious manner.

Mrs. Davis served dainty refreshments and the wishes for her future anniversaries were many and varied.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION IS PLANNING FOR THE THE WINTER'S WORK

When the Young Women's Association was started in Pensacola, the need for such work was recognized by the ladies who are interested in the movement. But it was not the present alone of which they thought. It was of the future, as well. And for the present, which has its need, and the future, which must be prepared for, these public-spirited women are working very earnestly this winter.

Already the need of the Y. W. C. A. has been demonstrated. Just as the Y. M. C. A. meets the needs of the young men of the city, in its smaller, but no less important way, the Y. W. C. A. is reaching out to help the homeless girl.

The ladies are working very earnestly for the bazaar to be held at an early date.

The officers of the association are Mrs. R. M. Wells, president; Mrs. C. A. Avery, vice-president; Mrs. William Fisher, second vice-president; Mrs. L. H. Pierce, treasurer; Mrs. Anna B. Orr, general secretary.

Mrs. Dora Donaldson is the very efficient house mother.

The association building is located just at the rear of the Y. M. C. A. and is comfortable and very ably managed.

During the coming winter the ladies hope to do much work to promote the activities of the Y. W. C. A., the need for which is, they believe, so great, and the value of which is, in their opinion, so far-reaching.

The Pompadour Ball to Be an Event of February 17.

February seems especially, of all the months, to be dedicated to Romance. King Priscus long ago set the seal of his favor on the second month in the year, and it is marked in gold on his calendar, and already invitations have been sent—most mysterious and delightful messages—to the maids and matrons of his court who constitute the Pompadours, that organization of young and lovely women, who add so much to the season's pleasure each year.

This year, so it is whispered, the Pompadours will entertain on February 17, and their ball will be even lovelier than those that have made their entertainments famous, as the expression of artistic entertaining.

Never is it known—not even to the very, very knowing—just how the pretty maids and matrons will choose to brighten the days before Shrove Tuesday, but it is stated by one Peter Pan, mischievous fellow, who is abroad whenever Youth and Romance are found, that the Pompadour ball of

MR. AND MRS. C. E. MAHAFFEY RETURN AFTER DELIGHTFUL VISIT.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mahaffey, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Beyer, have returned to their home in Kansas City, where Mr. Mahaffey holds a responsible position with the Burlington railway. Mrs. Mahaffey, who was Miss Lena Johnson, is a niece of Mrs. Beyer, and she and her husband are so delighted with Pensacola, that they may, at some future date, make their home here. They have enjoyed many courtesies during their visit.
